Maritime Centre Vellamo

Shifting to Wood and the industrial Aalto – for the information-seeking architecture enthusiasts

At the sources of bread. For the love of wood, curiosity about the Aalto architecture and industrial development.

A day trip starts at the Maritime Centre Vellamo's Shifting to Wood -exhibition. The silhouette of the wood product industry is still an integral part of Kymenlaakso and its cityscape. After the exhibition we will during lunch admire the new wood architecture at the Event Centre Satama under the wooden roof at Restaurant Buugi.

The day trip continues to Jokipuisto Park in Karhula. The river park is a unique example of how parks build Kotka's image as the park capital of Finland. From Jokipuisto Park we continue to explore the industrial history of Kotka in Karhula.

Today, Karhula Industrial Park is a vibrant, efficient, and cohesive work centre. The tour ends with a cultural coffee and a treat in Karhula market square. A short distance from the market square is perhaps the most famous suburb in Kotka or even in Finland, called Sunila.

Sunila is designed by the architectural couple Aalto, a so-called forest suburb. We will explore the area with a guide. The tour ends with a visit to the home of the Sunila factory manager in Kantola. In Kantola, built in 1937, we enjoy a three-course menu designed in honour of the Aalto architect couple, which is at the same time a guided tour of the world of flavours and architecture. The menu is part of the local flavours of the region.
